GERMAN SUGAR BOUNTIES

A SCHEME TO REDUCE PRESEN- T COMPETITION.

German Exports to the United States Will Fall Off Under Stimulus of Home Production.

The last sugar conference at Brussels having passed off without bringing about any result, the proposition was made in Germany from a private quarter, to the effect the abolition of the sugar bounty by the division, in a fixed proportion, of the various sugar consuming countries among the sugar producing states. This proposition, the execution of which is scarcely to be thought of seriously, is based upon the consideration that the bounty is a consequence of international competition, and that consequently the only means of entirely doing away with the bounty is to do away with the competition. The execution of the project would naturally mean a radical interference with international economy, and it may well be assumed that the various producing states interested in this question will not agree to such an arrangement. It is true that the unbridled liberty of commerce in the markets of the world, and the competition caused thereby, has pre-eminently contributed to bring about and extend the sugar bounty, but even supposing the competition between the European beet sugar states could be abolished by means of an international agreement, like the one proposed, there would yet remain the great struggle between beet sugar and cane sugar. The losses sustained by the German sugar industry in the last fifteen years must be attributed in part, at least, to the competition of cane sugar.
Germany has, from 1859 to 1898, exported about 3,400,000 tons of sugar—that is, nearly 50 per cent of the entire German sugar production. This exportation has, however, only been rendered possible by the opening of the English and, temporarily, the United States markets. It reached its climax in the case of the latter in 1897-1898, before the new tariff came into force.
According to these figures, it is above all, the exportation of refined sugar that has increased. The value of the whole of the German sugar exports is estimated at $50,000,000 for the past year, as against $54,700,000 in 1897, $56, 300,000 in 1896, and $38,700,000 in 1895.
The bounties paid were $4,350,000 in 1895-96, $6,100,000 in 1896-97, and $8,725,000 in 1897-98.

The bulk of German sugar exports goes to England, where the consumption per head of the population is about three times as large as in Germany.
The efforts of the U. S. Government to stimulate the home production of sugar will no doubt lead to a further decrease of German exports to the United States.

SANITARY COMMITTEE.

Requests to Merchants and Recommendation About Churches.

A formal request is being upon merchants today to open their places of business later and close earlier, to assist the work of the health inspectors.
Each merchant is being furnished with a list of his employees now acting as inspectors and is informed that additional workers are needed. This action was decided upon at the meeting of the Citizens' committee yesterday afternoon.

After considerable discussion it was decided to recommend to the Board of Health the closing of churches from tomorrow morning.
A committee from Kalili waited upon the meeting with the information that there was a pass in the mountains at the head of the valley through which people from the city could get out to the other side of the island. It was the opinion of the committee that one or more natives had recently gone through there into Koolau. Dr. Huddy and Prof.
U. Thompson were instructed to place guards on the pass and keep them there day and night.

It was decided to call a meeting of all inspectors and sub-inspectors to take place in Progress hall at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

CANNY JAPANESE LEGISLATORS Much amusement was caused by an announcement from the chair that a private bill had been received for the better control of usurers. It is understood that many of the members are in embarrassed circumstances, and that they have been obliged to have recourse to money-lenders who exact harsh terms and are inconveniently importunate in their methods of doinging. The bill in question is to restrain these folks, and as some of its provisions betray the exasperation of the debtor rather than the prudence of the legislator the house laughed heartily when the measure made its appearance for admission to the order of the day.—Japan Mail.
